Putting the pedal to the metal at the Andover Mow-tor Speedway

The Andover Motor Speedway was the scene Saturday of lawn mowers racing each other around a winding track flanked by old tires. The event had become so popular in recent years at the Andover Olde Home Days that organizers decided to hold a "Fall Classic." Two heats, one shown here with Chris Taylor leading, preceded the main race. Seven drivers competed in the main event, with Esau Cooper passing Andy Morton on the last lap to win. Cooper said the only specification is that the "vehicles" have a lawnmower chassis. More photos, Page 6.

SAD 44 School Board:

New Adult Ed director; land purchase negotiations; board transparency

BY AMY WIGHT
CHAPMAN

The SAD 44 School Board on Tuesday unanimously approved the nomination of Lois Ruff as the district's new director of adult and community education.

Ruff has served as acting director since the resignation of former ACE Director Jeanne Waite in June. Superintendent David Murphy said she was chosen from among five applicants, four of whom were interviewed by THS Principal Cheryl Lang, Director of Special Services and Curriculum Paula Leavitt, Business Manager Bruce Powell, and Murphy.

He told the School Board that Ruff, who has been the lead instructor for the program for more than a decade, is eligible for conditional certification, and will complete the requirements for final certification as soon as possible.

Ruff will be signed to a year-round contract, to include a salary of $52,829 for the first year, with the salary for the second year of the contract to be negotiated. She will receive the same benefits package offered to building administrators.

LAND PURCHASE
The School Board entered executive session for a discussion on the possible acquisition of land abutting the Telstar athletic fields.

Following the session, the board voted to authorize Murphy to negotiate the best possible purchase price for the 40-acre lot.

Murphy will report back on the negotiations. Any eventual decision by the School Board on the purchase of the property would be subject to the approval of district voters.

TRANSPARENCY

Pursuant to recent discussions of transparency, Chair Lainey Cross said she had received a suggestion that more information be provided by committee chairs when they report to the full board.

She also suggested that if a committee has not met since the last board meeting, the committee chair should state that fact, instead of simply saying that the committee has nothing to report, which she said could be misconstrued as a failure to report the proceedings of a meeting.

Education Committee Chair Roberta Taylor told the board that her committee had met at the 4-H Learning Center, where they had an opportunity to tour the facility and speak with Telstar ninth graders about the program.

Taylor updated the board on alternative learning opportunities in which some Telstar students are participating, including several individualized on-line learning programs as well as the THS/CMCC collaborative program.

Newly director Bonnie Largess reported that the Finance Committee had reviewed the district's investment strategy with Business Manager Bruce Powell, who

Argument made for non-users to share in Bethel sewer costs

BY ALISON ALOISIO

A Bethel hearing Monday on a proposed new definition for "dwelling unit" for sewer billing purposes expanded into a debate on whether all taxpayers - not just those on the sewer system - should share in the fixed costs of the treatment plant.

The new definition is intended to be more precise in order to satisfy some sewer ratepayers who are unhappy that their older apartment buildings are now being billed for sewer use by each separate unit (see last week's Citizen for details).

A special Town Meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Town Office to consider the new definition.

Selectman Don Bennett said a town Fees Committee, currently working separately on a new sewer rate structure, would likely use a percentage of the base sewer charge to apply to the other units in a building, such as an apartment building. He said the percentage being considered would probably result in a small increase per unit. He also said the minimum cubic foot use threshold might be adjusted.

But at Monday's hearing, sewer ratepayer Bob Laux objected to the proposed new dwelling unit definition, arguing that it should be broadened to include such places as lodging rooms and Gould Academy dormitory rooms.

Laux said without a broader sharing of the costs, a group of ratepayers is considering a class action suit against the town.

Ratepayer Ross Swan said he wanted to see what the new rate structure would be before the town votes on the definition. "We don't trust you, plain and simple," he told selectmen.

"Laps for 'Leukemia' at Telstar Saturday

"Laps for Leukemia," a fundraiser to benefit two Telstar High School students battling leukemia, will take place Saturday morning at the Telstar track.

Regan Kauf and Jonathon Locke both have the disease. Since last week Kauf has been hospitalized and fighting for her life against an infection, according to a "Team-Regan" Facebook page.

In the past month the school has held special days to support each student. In conjunction with a pep rally for the school's sports teams, students and staff wore orange for Kauf - her favorite color and also the official color symbolizing leukemia awareness. They also donated toward her expenses.

They followed up with a "Jeans for Jonathon" day.

For Saturday's event, participants are asked to wear orange, donate what money they can and walk on the track for a time between 9 and 11 a.m.

In case of rain, the walk will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 1.

For more information, call the Telstar High School office at 824-2136.

There is also a fundraising effort at www.gofundme.com/TeamRegan.

"Ghost Walk" highlights cemetery association meeting in Woodstock

CHAPMAN

Two of Lakeside Cemetery's "prominent and permanent citizens" - merchant and showman Ezra Stephens and 33rd Maine Governor Sidney Perham - entertained at the recent fall meeting of the Maine Old Cemetery Association in Bryant Pond.

About 50 members of MOCA attended the meeting at the Franklin Grange Hall, hosted by the Woodstock Historical Society.

Joyce Howe, author of a recent book about Woodstock's cemeteries, gave a history of the town, and WHS President Larry Bonney provided a history of the I.W. Andrews Casket factory.

Elsie Bonney spoke on the history of the "white bronze" cemetery markers, actually made of zinc, that can be found in some of Woodstock's cemeteries.

WHS members served a noon meal of soups and sandwiches, after which both the society's building on Main Street and the Bryant Pond Universalist Church were opened for tours.

The historical society voted last spring to take over ownership of the church, constructed in 1852. Services had not been held there for about a decade, and the Northern New England District of the Unitarian Universalist Church Association had owned it since 1921.

The afternoon featured a "Ghost Walk" at the cemetery adjacent to the church, with live portrayals of two of two prominent Woodstock natives who are buried there.

Wayne Howe reprised the role he played for Woodstock's Bicentennial celebration in June, that of 19th century circus owner Ezra Stephens.

Stephens' larger-than-life personality, his success as a showman, and the sensational circumstances of his death all contributed to his renown.

In the 1850s, he branched out from storekeeping when he became the owner of a trained bear and began to exhibit it around the Northeast.

He soon added other exhibits, from dancing turkeys to a "cockatoo" he created by dyeing the feathers of an ordinary Leghorn chicken.

He traveled with his circus for nearly four decades, becoming known as "the Barnum of Maine," before retiring back to his store in Bryant Pond in 1892.

In 1899, Stephens gathered with several friends at his store to discuss a robbery that had taken place there the night before.

According to a report in the Boston Sunday Globe, he served them liquor from a bottle that had previously contained creosote "and still had some of the poison dried upon the bottom and sides in quantities so small as to be unnoticed."

Most of the men drank

DRIVER'S ACTIONS INEXCUSABLE

To the Editor:

I was returning from a bike ride on Monday, Oct. 12, about half a mile from my house on the Intervale Road in Bethel when a car was coming towards me and a truck from behind. It was a dangerous spot for the truck to pass so I put out my hand to signal to truck driver that he probably shouldn't pass there, it was not safe. He proceeded to slam on his brakes, screech his tires and leave tread on the road. I immediately bailed off the road into a yard where I stopped.

The truck driver, with a young boy in the front seat and a grin on his face, rolled down the passenger side window and said "Yah." He obviously was not concerned about his actions. When I told him I put my hand out to let him know that it wasn't safe for him to pass his response was "Yah, I saw ya" and continued on his way.

He had plenty of time to slow down, he could have apologized for his unsafe driving practices and scaring me to death but instead he drove off. His actions are inexcusable and only sends a message that truck drivers are all jerks (I would prefer a stronger word here) but I know his is not true. Some drivers are obnoxious, selfish, rude and unsafe.

Fortunately, most drivers in Bethel were courteous, aware and shared the road with people of all ages who are bikers, walkers, strollers, runners and roller skiers. Thanks Bethel for being being courteous to others on the road.

On behalf of Blue, the staff at Bethel Animal Hospital would like to say a huge thank you. From the moment Leanne posted his picture on Facebook, we have been overwhelmed by your response. Countless phone calls, donations and mail continue to pour in.

It is amazing how one act of cruelty can result in so much kindness. Be assured that Blue will continue to receive the best of care as well as all of our love.

Whoever committed this heinous act did not succeed in taking his spirit. He is full of life and love. Blue sends all of you hugs and sloppy kisses.

HELP OUT YOUR MAIL CARRIER

To the Editor:

Crisp days, cooler nights, who doesn't love fall? But taking a fall - that's a different issue.

Leaves in an array of colors add a blanket of pre-winter beauty to the New England landscape. But what lies beneath those leaves can be treacherous. Holes, hoses, branches and toys can be camouflaged trip hazards around your home, and wet leaves can be as slippery as ice. That puts any visitor to your residence, including letter carriers, at risk.

You can help protect visitors to your home by removing debris and leaves and promptly repairing broken stairs or walkways. Please keep your entryway free of items that can become hidden hazards and make sure your downspouts are clear and direct water away from walkways.

To safely deliver, carriers need a clear path to your mailbox. Overhanging branches or leaf piles at boxes should be removed. Boxes that are improperly mounted, rusted or won't close securely should be replaced and house numbers on boxes should be visible. This is the time of year to address any mailbox issues before the snow falls.

With Daylight Savings time it will be getting dark earlier. Leaving a light on to illuminate any outdoor hazards will help your carrier to safely deliver your mail.

As we approach the holiday season, thank you for your cooperation keeping your property safe while our letter carriers continue to provide the First Class service you've come to expect.

BIKEMAINE THANKS

To the Editor:

Three weeks ago we had a wonderful opportunity to welcome 350 bicyclists and 50 volunteers and staff of the Bicycle Coalition of Maine to our beautiful community. We were blessed with the distinction of being the "layover community," meaning the group enjoyed a full day off in Bethel, resulting in robust economic activity for nearly 48 hours during what is typically a pretty laid back September midweek. Wow - it was such a success! We made a positive impression on people who hailed from at least 34 states and 5 countries. Some of them promised to come back! There is no amount of advertising dollars that can pay for this kind of positive public relations.

Despite the fact that the week was already a busy one with our upcoming Harvestfest, the Bethel Area Chamber offered to be the overall coordinator. We are fortunate to have had supportive and engaged volunteers who served on the planning committee in the 9 to 10 months from the first contact with BikeMaine until the event happened. We extend sincere thanks to this committee: Jessie and Gabe Perkins; Bill and Nancy White; Kristen Seib of Barker Mountain Bikes; Deb Costello, Jerry Bernier, and Peter Southam at Gould Academy; and Meryl Kelly of the Local Food Connection.

Bill and Nancy were coordinated the information area, which was critical to getting the cyclists acquainted with Bethel and the many activities we had planned for them. The info booth volunteers were Jan Stowell, Jessie Perkins, Sarah Weaver, Ellie Andrews, Jan Newhouse and Brett Shiftin.

Deb Costello and Jerry Bernier worked with BikeMaine on the layout and implementation of the Bike Village at Gould Academy. The staff and participants could not have been happier with the panoramic mountain-view in the heart of our lovely village. Deb, with the help of Peter Southam, and other Gould staff members, recruited a set-up and break-down crew, luggage handlers, and overall logistics. This was customer service at its best!

Meryl Kelly from the Local Food Connection was the coordinator for the immense Wednesday evening and Thursday morning meals for 400. BikeMaine requires that the majority of the food needs to be locally sourced, so Meryl worked with GOT Farms (Greenhouses of Telstar) and local farmers to grow as much of the produce for the meals as possible. Meryl's right-hand woman was Maisey Griffin, and the following individuals also gave their time to orchestrate these two large meals: Karla Horecky, Jean Bass, Michelle, Levi and Isaac Shutt, Brian Lenberg, Tara Pocock, Carl Costanzi, Brendan Schaffler, Hope Doyle, Victoria and Courtney Skillin, Bode and Evan Leach, Stephanie, Travis Kneeland, Mr. Vermette and the THS football team, Dara Turgeon, Jessie and Gabe Perkins, Ann Speth, David Walker, Nancy Babcock, Steve Wight, Robin and Matt Zinchuk, Scott Hynek, Suzanne Dunham, Alyson Harris, Steve Abbott, Tyra Howes, Beth Weisberger, and others who jumped in to help as needed.

Thanks are also extended to The Bethel Inn Resort for hosting the food tent area, to our speakers at the Wednesday MPBN panel discussion, Amanda Moran, Dennis Doyon, Gabe Perkins; and to the entire community for opening your arms and rolling out the welcome carpet for this event! Bravo, job well done!

From the State House

BY STATE REP. FRAN HEAD

Oct. 15 marks the passing of 90 days from adjournment, which means that new laws go into effect. One bill which I sponsored, LD 1438: An Act To Include Bows and Crossbows as Dangerous Weapons for Purposes of Protection from Abuse Orders, represents one accomplishment which I am very proud of. The other domestic violence bill which I successfully sponsored was LD 150, which directs state agencies to review batterer intervention programs for pre-trial and post-conviction use.

These two bills are the perfect example of how it is truly rewarding to see the ideas and recommendations of my constituents become law. I believe that the 127th legislature has started to chip away at the issue of domestic violence, and I am hopeful that we can do even more in the coming session.

Now that we are getting into the fall, I wanted to make sure that people were aware of the Hunters for the Hungry program offered by the Department of Inland Fisheries and the Department of Agriculture, Conservation, and Forestry. This program allows for hunters to donate to a family in need who use food pantries, soup kitchens, or homeless shelters. Those wishing for more information on this program may call toll free 1-888-4DEER-ME (1-888-433-3763).

Lastly, I wanted to make sure that the readers of the Bethel Citizen knew that I am always willing to sponsor Legislative Sentiments for my constituents. Legislative Sentiments are a public declaration in honor of a personal achievement signed by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives. Help me come up with ideas for sentiments by looking through the below categories;

- Wedding anniversaries 50 or more years
- High school honors (e.g. Valedictorian, Salutatorian)
- Birthdays 75 years old or more at 5-year intervals
- Birthdays over 100 years old
- Sports honors and awards
- Boy Scout Eagle Scouts
- Girl Scout Gold and Silver Awards
- Chamber of Commerce awards
- Civic appreciations, congratulations and acknowledgments
- First and second place pageants and athletic awards.

In addition to these, Legislative Memoriam Resolutions can be requested to express sympathy regarding the death of a prominent local or state figure. I would be honored to submit a Legislative Sentiment at your request. You can contact me with the information at FranMillsHead@gmail.com, or call my legislative office at (207) 287-1440.

only small quantities, and remarked that the liquor tasted "off," but, the Globe reported, "Mr. Stephens drank more than the others and made a remark to the effect that the liquor was all right. He lived only a few hours. Walter Bisbee, a cattle buyer, died from the same cause the next morning, and three other men were critically ill."

Dressed in a top hat and tails, Will Chapman portrayed Sidney Perham, a Woodstock native who served in the U.S. House of Representatives and as Maine's 33rd governor.

As a young man, Perham purchased the family homestead from his father, and for the next two decades he carried on a large farming business, keeping between 250 and 500 sheep.

He became a selectman for the town of Woodstock at the age of 22, later serving as a member of the Maine Board of Agriculture before being elected to the Maine House of Representatives in 1854 and the U.S. House of Representatives in 1862.

He was elected governor of Maine in 1870, succeeding Civil War hero Joshua Chamberlain, and served for three one-year terms.

As governor, Perham's most passionate cause was the temperance movement, in which he believed wholeheartedly. He helped to organize Woodstock's first temperance society, cheered the passage of Maine's law prohibiting alcohol in 1951, and lamented its repeal just five years later.

A staunch Universalist throughout his life, he was a founding member of the Woodstock Universalist Church in 1843 and served many times as president of both the state and national Universalist conventions.

Perham lived in Washington, D.C. for the last 20 years of his life, maintaining a summer home on Paris Hill. After his death in 1907, his body was returned to his hometown and interred in Lakeside Cemetery, where his wife, the former Almena Jane Hathaway, is also buried.

According to its website, "The Maine Old Cemetery Association was founded in 1968 for the main purposes of locating old cemeteries in the state of Maine, encouraging the care and preservation of those cemeteries, and the gathering and preservation of historical information regarding these cemeteries."

ART OPENING AT "THE GEM"—About 100 people attended Saturday's opening of "Phase 2: A Proposal for an Appalachian Glacier," a collaborative art installation by Wade Kavanaugh and Stephen B. Nguyen at the former Casablanca Cinema on Cross Street. Kavanaugh and his wife, Bethany Weisberger, have signed a short-term lease on the building. In the next few months, they hope to purchase it and reopen it as The Gem Theater, offering both Hollywood movies and independent films, as well as providing space for community groups to gather and hold screenings. Saturday's opening included a time-lapse film showing how Kavanaugh and Nguyen create their work, a slide show and talk by the artists, and a question-and-answer period. Later that evening, "Meru," the first feature film to be screened in the theater in three years, was shown to an audience of about 60. The film documents the attempt by three American climbers to scale the forbidding Meru Peak in the Himalayas. There will be three additional screenings of "Meru" this weekend: Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30 and a Sunday matinee at 4 p.m. The theater doors will be open for several hours before the movie, at 4 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and at noon on Sunday, for those wishing to see the art exhibition and tour the theater. Kavanaugh and Nguyen's collaborative installation, a glacier constructed of gray kraft paper, filled one theater. Here, Reece Pierce peeks out from a "snow fort" beneath the paper glacier. *A. Sewer

Harry Faulkner (holding paper) makes a point at Monday's public hearing on new wording for a "dwelling unit" definition. A. Aloisio

Resident Bud Kulik suggested that fixed costs (for such things as debt on infrastructure improvements) for the treatment plant be shared among all Bethel taxpayers, not just the 650 ratepayers.

Bonds approved for the department, he said, are general obligation bonds for the Town of Bethel, and should be divided among taxpayers, as road costs are. "At Town Meeting you probably voted for those bonds that the 650 people who are hooked up to the sewer have to pay for," he said.

The operational costs, he said, could be billed according to actual usage.

The definition of a dwelling unit would then not matter, said Kulik.

Harry Faulkner, who said he also is not on the sewer system, agreed that all taxpayers should share in the costs. "If you can charge everyone for the school, why not charge for the sewer?" he asked.

But, he said, if the town made such a proposal, "everybody who is not on town sewer and water, they're going to be furious. You're going to have Hell on your hands ... You know if you put that question before the town, the 650 are going to get crushed."

Nancy Murphy, also not a ratepayer, noted that not everyone drives but must still pay taxes on the roads. "There are things we collectively pay for," she said.

Others noted that taxpayers who are not on the sewer system may still use it when they come into town, or have children who use it at school. Bennett said the town had consulted the Maine Municipal Association to ask if it is legal to charge all taxpayers for the fixed costs, and learned it was. However, he said, MMA also commented, "Good luck."

But resident Donald G. Bennett cited precedent for such a move in a 1990 Bethel town report, which described a 1989 town vote to take on an additional $380,000 loan for sewer upgrades. "At the Oct. 10, 1989 special Town meeting, the voters authorized the borrowing of the additional $380,000 with the stipulation that the loan be repaid from property taxes and not from sewer user fees. The voters felt that the financial burden for upgrading the sewerage plant should be borne by the entire town and not just the 422 users," then-Town Manager Rodney Lynch wrote.

Resident Scott Hynek favored billing for operating costs (chemicals, sludge disposal, for example) according to usage and fixed costs according to the number of toilets on the system. He argued that the town voters as a whole only approve sewer bonds because that is the process through which the debt must be incurred.

At the upcoming Town Meeting Monday, voters may only vote "yes" or "no" on the definition, town officials said.

On another sewer-related agenda item, selectmen approved a preliminary scope of work description for a $800,000 treatment plant improvement project. A little over $100,000 is from loans, Town Manager Christine Landes said.

TOWN TRUCKS OK'D FOR BASKETBALL COURT WORK

In other business Monday, selectmen approved allowing the use of town trucks by volunteer drivers to haul gravel for the planned basketball court behind Dunkin' Donuts. Landes said the contractor who had originally agreed to haul it has other jobs to finish this late in the season.

The board also accepted the resignation of Gabe Perkins from the Comprehensive Plan Committee. Perkins was also the chairman of the committee.

Selectmen also approved a fee of $3 for each propane tank disposed of at the Tri-Town Transfer Station.

also told the committee that the FY'14 audit review was very positive. She said the auditor's review of the current year's budget is scheduled to begin later this fall.

Sheryl Morgan of Woodstock reported that the Policy Committee had begun to review the district's homework policy, with the intention of clarifying the reasons for homework and the ways in which it can be used as an extension of in-school learning.

Shesaidthecommitteehad alsodiscussedtransparency, with much of their discussion focused on the need for the district to develop a more user-friendly website.

"It was felt that this would help community members become better informed about the work of the district," Morgan said.

Reporting for the board's Newry Withdrawal Committee, Marcel Polak of Woodstock said the committee would meet the following day. He told the board that mediation sessions between the School Board's committee and the town of Newry's Withdrawal Committee have been scheduled for Nov. 17 and Nov. 24 from 1-5 p.m. and that additional mediation sessions would be scheduled as necessary.

FRESHMAN ACADEMY
There will be an open house for anyone wishing to tour the Telstar Freshman Academy campus at the Bryant Pond 4-H Learning Center today (Thursday) from 4-7:30 p.m.

Ryder Scott, director of the University of Maine's 4-H Camp and Learning Centers, spoke of changes at the Bryant Pond center since the former Maine Conservation School was merged with the University of Maine Cooperative Extension.

"If you're not familiar with 4-H in the 20th century, some people like to say that it's not just cows and cooking anymore," Scott told the board. "4-H is really a leader in science, technology, engineering, and math, or STEM, education."

Increasingly, he said, 4-H is partnering with schools to complement their existing STEM curriculum, providing students with opportunities for hands-on, experiential lessons that reinforce their classroom learning.

The teachers and 4-H Learning Center staff who work with the district's ninth graders in the Telstar Freshman Academy program reported to the board on the first six weeks of the school year.

SAD 44 teachers Doug Bennett and Kelly Dole and 4-H educators Norm Greenberg and Tara Pocock work as a team to create lessons that engage all learners and build academic and interpersonal skills.

"One of the things we focus on at the Telstar Freshman Academy is the culture that we create," said Bennett, describing how students had identified the importance of teamwork, respect, and acceptance to their learning experience.

"It's not a 'sage on the stage' model," Bennett said of teaching in the program. "It's teachers as partners in learning."

The educators reviewed the first two educational units of the school year, Habits of Mind and Food Systems.

The Habits of Mind unit identifies 16 problem-solving skills that translate to real life situations throughout a person's lifetime, including persistence, gathering data through all senses, applying past knowledge to new situations, and thinking and communicating with clarity and precision.

Lessons in the Food Systems unit range from the history of agriculture to the science of food preparation and preservation.

A two-day field trip to the Blueberry Cove 4-H Center and the Herring Gut Learning Center in Port Clyde allowed students to learn about ocean food resources and the impacts of environmental change on food systems.

"They're engaging in a unit of study that is real and relevant to their lives. Everybody eats," Pocock said.

Bethel director Frank DelDuca, who recently visited the 4-H Learning Center as a member of the board's Education Committee, said he had been skeptical of the program when it was introduced last year.

However, after seeing the level of engagement of the students and the quality of their interaction with the teachers, he said, "I was very impressed, to say the least."

"From an outsider looking in, it really does seem like it's working really well," DelDuca said.

WES AWARD

Prior to Tuesday's meeting a reception was held at Woodstock Elementary School to celebrate its designation as a School of Excellence by the National PTA. WES Principal Jolene Littlehale credited the school's PTA members, in particular Tracey Walker, who is the food service manager and the parent of two former WES students, with "getting the ball rolling" for participation in the program.

Based on surveys that were completed by parents, the National PTA sent recommendations to the school.

"We were very high in parent involvement already, which is what most people focus on," Littlehale said, "so we chose to focus on increasing our kids' access to arts education."

The school has since put in place numerous initiatives, sponsored by the PTA, to broaden students' exposure to all aspects of the arts, including visual arts, theater, music, graphic arts, and even cake-decorating.

A "Careers in the Arts" day last spring brought local artists as well as former WES students back to the school to talk about their pursuit of arts education in college and in their careers.

"The support of the PTA here is amazing," Littlehale said. "I'm the most spoiled rotten principal in the state of Maine, because I get to work with them."

Brown Bag Lunch: From a village in the Congo

On Tuesday, Oct. 27 from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at Gould Academy's McLaughlin Auditorium, Linda Orsi Robinson will speak about her experience as a nurse-midwife in the remote village of Shamwana in the Democratic Republic of Congo, where she served with the humanitarian organization Doctors Without Borders.

The event is part of the Down Home Maine series, sponsored by the Western Mountains Senior College, and is free and open to the public.

The following day, Wednesday, Oct. 28, Robinson will lead a Brown Bag Lunch discussion, "A Global Perspective," at 12:15 in the library at the Bethel Inn. Participants are invited to bring their lunch and join a discussion about improving our sensitivity toward cultures vastly different from our own.

The Brown Bag Lunch discussion is also sponsored by the Western Mountains Senior College, and is also free and open to the public.

While in Shamwana, Robinson set aside Sunday mornings as a time to write home to assure her family and friends she was safe, and to process the raw emotions and thoughts from what she was experiencing.

The letters she wrote from the war-torn community became her lifeline and, ultimately, a book, Shamwana: A Midwife's Letters from the Field, which she says she hopes will "help raise awareness of how our actions impact the global stage."

As she worked to care for women and their families, she came to know their extraordinary suffering and their equally extraordinary strength.

Struggling to improve the lives and health of the people of Shamwana, Robinson found herself in a community traumatized by a decade of war and famine. The bleak landscape, once teeming with animals and vegetation, had been stripped bare by people desperate to survive.

"I had to tell their story ... my hope is to share a better understanding of the Congo, and the effects on its people after decades of war," Robinson said in a recent interview.

Robinson practices nurse-midwifery in Bar Harbor. Her international work has taken her to Malawi Africa as a Peace Corps volunteer; to American Samoa, where she started the first midwifery practice; and to the Democratic Republic of Congo with Doctors Without Borders.

Lost hikers found in Grafton

GRAFTON-A fourteen-hour search has ended well for two hikers from Massachusetts, according to a press release from the Maine Warden Service. Mary Burnham, 28, from Jamaica Plain and Seamus Langan, 31, from Quincy became separated from their hiking party of six Sunday, Oct. 11. The party began at the Upper Success Pond Road trailhead at about noon Sunday. The group was hiking the Spec Pond Trail and was headed east toward Old Spec Mountain. Two members of the party decided to return to their vehicle and drove around to the pre-planned end point at the Grafton Notch trailhead on Route 26. The remaining four hikers continued toward Old Spec Mountain. When the two hikers arrived at the Route 26 trailhead to pick up the rest of their party at about 8 p.m., only two of the four hikers were there. It was later learned that when at the summit of Old Spec Mountain, Burnham and Langan inadvertently became separated and took the Mahosuc Notch Loop Trail south and became lost. Searchers deployed in the area at approximately 4 a.m. Monday morning. With the aid of a Warden Service aircraft, radio contact was made with both Burnham and Langan at 11 a.m. Monday. By 1 p.m., game wardens, searchers with Mahosuc Search & Rescue, as well as volunteer hikers who were hiking the Appalachian Trail made contact with Burnham and Langan. The two hikers were carrying a handheld radio that made communication possible and aided greatly in locating the hikers. Both were in good condition after having spent an unexpected night in the woods.

Greenwood selectmen's meeting minutes

(Note: The Citizen will print, on a space-available basis, minutes of recent meetings of the Greenwood Board of Selectmen. The minutes for each meeting must be approved at the following meeting before public release.)

Sept. 15, 2015

1. Open Meeting - Chair Henderson called the meeting to order at 5:00 p.m. with Selectman Arnold Jordan, Selectman Amy Chapman, Town Manager Kimberly Sparks, and Deputy Clerk Angela Lovejoy attendance.
2. Pledge of Allegiance - Recited the Pledge of Allegiance.
3. Warrants - It was motioned and seconded to accept Warrant #11 ($21,427.98), and Warrant #12 ($38,890.44). Motion passed 3-0.
4. Minutes - It was motioned and seconded to accept the minutes of September 1, 2015 as written. Motion passed 3-0.
5. Comments from the Public - No one from the public had any comments. Selectman Amy Chapman said someone suggested to her that the Board look into community solar power. She said there were seven such projects in the works right now and the Town of Paris had just gone online with theirs. The Board did not think it would hurt to look into it. Chapman said she would see what she could find out.
6. Sand Bids - Chair Henderson opened the following winter sand bids: Bid #1 from Poland Corporation, 2000 yards screened sand for $7.50 per yard; Bid #2 from RA Tibbetts, 2000 yards screened sand for $7.45 per yard; and Bid #3 from Hadley's, 2000 yards screened sand for $8.20 per yard. There was discussion on the price range. Road Foreman Alan Seames attended. He said Tibbetts had bid a lot of times in past years and he didn't mind giving him the bid. The Board agreed. Selectman Chapman motioned and Selectman Jordan seconded to award the 2015/2016 winter sand bid to RA Tibbetts for $7.45 per yard. Motion passed 3-0.

7. Recreational Access for Alvin Yates - Town Manager Sparks mentioned that Alvin Yates had put in his yearly application to trap on the Town's property on Route 219. Selectman Jordan said he had not heard any complaints about it and thought it would be fine. The Board agreed. Chair Henderson signed the Recreational Access Landowner Courtesy Card for Alvin Yates to trap on the Town's property on Route 219.

8. Paving at Transfer Station - Town Manager Sparks mentioned it would be $6,500 to put two inches of compacted pavement on 3,500 square feet at the transfer station. She said the Woodstock Selectboard agreed with the price. Road Foreman Seames said the amount was reasonable but the Board should get a second quote for comparison. The Board agreed. Sparks said she would talk to Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield about it.

9. Western Maine Transportation Funding - Town Manager Sparks mentioned that Western Maine Transportation Service was looking for a letter of support regarding billing the County instead of asking for individual support from area towns within it. The Board agreed to write a letter of support.

10. Executive Session - It was motioned and seconded to go into Executive Session at 5:19 p.m. per 1 M.R.S.A. § 405 (6) (F) to discuss confidential records. Motion passed 3-0. It was motioned and seconded to come out of Executive Session at 5:30 p.m. Motion passed 3-0. A motion and second was made to issue a hardship abatement in the amount of $397.15. Motion passed 3-0.

11. 12. Adjourn - It was motioned and seconded to adjourn the meeting at 5:31 p.m. Motion passed 3-0.

The Bethel Animal Hospital announced Monday that it is accepting applications to adopt Blue, the 6-month-old puppy found in Newry two weeks ago with his muzzle severely damaged from being bound.

Blue, a 6-month-old pit bull mix, is being cared for at the Bethel Animal Hospital since being found in Newry on Oct. 2. The hospital is taking applications from people interested in adopting the puppy.

Veterinary technician Kathy Jo Farren said Blue had surgery on his muzzle Oct. 5 to remove the dead tissue from the wound. For the past week, the pit bull mix has been a "happy and healthy dog," and is showing "a lot of improvement," she said.

'Blue' the dog up for adoption

BY MATTHEW DAIGLE, SUN MEDIA

"I don't think there's going to be any long-term issues with him, or his muzzle," Farren said. "There's a chance that the hair on one side of his muzzle won't grow back, but other than that, it looks like he's going to make a full recovery."

On Monday morning, the Bethel Animal Hospital posted on its Facebook page that several dozen people had offered to adopt Blue. The hospital wrote it would allow people to begin applying to adopt Blue, but were putting guidelines in place before selecting a new owner.

Farren said that they were sorting through applications that "meet the criteria until we find the perfect match."

"We want to make sure that something like this never happens to Blue again, so we're going to have a multi-step application process," she added.

The hospital wrote on its Facebook page that applications must be requested by message on its Facebook page, or in person. The deadline to apply is Wednesday, Oct. 21, by the end of the day.

The hospital also wrote that prospective homes should be "close enough to the Bethel Animal Hospital so that continued follow-up care can be maintained," and that homes should not include children under the age of 10.

"Preference will be given to applicants with a fenced-in yard on a property owned by the applicant," the hospital wrote. "Blue will need a person or family with a very active lifestyle."

Farren said those who meet the qualifications will be interviewed at the hospital and will receive a home visit to make sure that "Blue gets along with any animals that are already located there, and that it will be a good fit for him."

"There are a lot of steps, but it's important to make sure that Blue gets the best possible care," Farren said.

Although the Bethel Animal Hospital has dealt with finding homes for injured animals in the past, Farren said it has "never seen anything to this extent."

"Several years ago, I was involved in rescuing 48 cats from a home," she said. "This was before social media was the big thing. Back then, I was interviewed by a news station, and we were able to get all 48 cats adopted. With Blue, and with social media as big as it is now, we had people calling in and donating money within an hour of Blue's status being posted online. It really is incredible. There was one cruel person out there that did this, and countless kind people."

Police are continuing to look for Blue's owner to determine how the dog ended up being abandoned in Newry. Anyone with information is asked to call 357-6796.

Bethel

Not So Fast - Ethel Bisbee

I am hearing that not everyone wants to save the building - would like to look at other uses for the 90 year old property. Many years ago my required reading was a book titled Europe's Futures, Europe Choices this could be applied to Bethel voters today, call it Ethel's Futures, Ethel's Choices. The site of the old school building is very favorable within the village. Let's hope that the Town Manager and Selectmen will consider all the choices carefully.

Family Dollar Store Opens

Kathy and I went shopping there on opening day and were both quite pleased. Met some seasoned local shoppers who should be good as reliable local references. As for me I got Hanes men's underwear. There is a really large assortment family merchandise food, clothing, frozen food items and as the saying goes much, much more. You should go see for yourself, we thought prices were very good. After I had put some photos and our reaction to the new store into the Bethel Journals Facebook page it attracted the attention of 261 others so far.

Is Mayville booming?

Right now the Birch Wood development has three new house projects under way. The site further along is of interest to me. Clearing the area for building meant removing a very big and I mean big boulder. Sixty-five or so years ago, the boulder was a sort of landmark, past which our cow path from our barn's back pasture up to the area where the Sport Thoma building is located. Also breakfasts at the Brew Pub seem to be attracting good numbers. This last weekend was a good example. Ron told me that when the BikeMaine group of 350 was here, they ran a shuttle breakfast service using their Humvee.

Sunday River's Fall Festival and Craft Show

More besides just the Wife Carry Race. Thousands of people were there Saturday morning. Of course a large part of the crowd was watching the wife carrying event. There were many places to get meals and/or snacks. Mountain bikers were also part of the crowd. But I only saw two familiar faces - Melody Bonnema and Jean Bass; they were looking over the craft and jewelry displays.

The So-Called Snowman Lot

Some may have noticed the back-hoe and digging which has occurred twice in the last few weeks. When Polly Davis wrote her 1993 paper on the history of Bridge Street, Cross Street and Riverside Lane, she noted that the area of Lincoln Street was known as the "Jungle." Some of the land being staked out and soil explored lay in the Jungle. Also that lot has been used off and on as a place to dump fill. That is why in some areas the field has risen from its original level at the time of the Bethel Station project and the town garage moved. So the nature and outcome of this activity may be unknown for some time.

Upcoming Hearing and Special Town Meeting on Sewer and Water Use Ordinance Changes a.k.a. Billing

Sewer billing formulas changed after the town's wastewater treatment plant was first constructed in the 1970s and again in the 1980s when the Department of Environmental Protection ordered that no more connections to the sewer system would be allowed until there was improved treatment of wastewater. This order focused on storm water overflows and inadequately treated sewage water going into the Androscoggin. The 1986 flood overwhelmed the system. The recently completed Bethel Inn Fairway Condos required sewer connections

The Way I See It

BY SHARON BOUCHARD

From the TWISI archives:
In most American homes today there's a fair number of gadgets and appliances and that is true in my home as well.

I would certainly be lost without some of them, that's for sure. I can't imagine life without my washer and dryer. The thought of weekly trips to a laundromat makes me cringe. I did it for a number of years in my younger days so I know firsthand how time consuming and inconvenient it is. No way would I ever want to go back to that!

And my electric mixer is a wonderful little marvel that I wouldn't want to be without. When I was a child all we had was an eggbeater and everyone in the family took turns when it came to making whipped cream. The result was usually a runny cream concoction rather than a stiff consistency.

I remember my mother's elation when she received her first electric mixer as a gift. We had desserts with a stiff glob of whipped cream every day for a week.

I like my electric can opener. It certainly is a nice thing to have; however, if it ceased to work I do have a variety of hand can openers and I know I would get by just fine until I replaced the electric one.

My microwave is truly a nice appliance though I use it primarily for heating leftovers and popping popcorn. Still, I wouldn't care to be without it.

I have a lot of other items that I may not use very often, but it's nice to have them on hand when I need them.

As nice as all of these things are I do not have a strong emotional attachment to any of them. I have a strong need for them, but I'm not in love with them. I don't have a personal relationship with any of them.

According to a recent study, that is not the case with people who own a Roomba. Roomba is the robotic vacuum made by iRobot Corp. It is a robotic disc that scoots around the floor sucking up dirt and dust. It knows not to bump into walls and furniture and can go under sofas, chairs and beds. A handy gadget to be sure.

In many cases they give it a name and in a few instances the owners have been known to dress the robotic piece of machinery.

Well, according to this study, which was recently in the newspaper, the owners of this handy gadget actually bond with it. In many cases they give it a name and in a few instances the owners have been known to dress the robotic piece of machinery. I'm not kidding, it was right in the paper.

Maybe I'm missing something here because I don't have that kind of relationship with my appliances. I never once thought of coming up with a nickname for my coffee pot even though it is the first thing I interact with in the morning. I do on occasion call my computer some choice names, but one would never consider those particular names terms of endearment.

There are currently over 2 million Roomba owners and there is even an Internet forum where Roomba owners can chat about their little pets.

One of the people conducting the study, who is an "emotional design" expert, discovered through monitoring the Roomba forum that not only do people name their little vacuums, in some cases they ravel with it and even one owner who introduced the machine to his parents.

I guess I shouldn't talk; when my kids were teenagers I tried introducing them to the washer and dryer, but sadly, they were never that well met.

The part of the article that really struck me was not the naming, not the traveling or even the little Roomba clothing. It was the mention of some Roomba owners pre-cleaning their houses before they put the bugger down on the floor. What is the point of that???

I have to admit that I don't own a Roomba so I really don't know what the excitement is all about. Maybe if I had one I'd feel differently.

I do know that I would not clean my floor so my vacuum didn't have to work too hard. I know I wouldn't dress any of my appliances, but what the heck, the way I see it, to each their own. I'll just go on about my business and load up my dishwasher. His name, by the way, is Mr. Clean.

Age-Friendly Community

The Age-Friendly Community Project will be using this column to update the public about our ongoing progress and to ask for your support. What's the Age-Friendly Community Project? Since early summer a small group of local citizens has been meeting to begin exploring ways to make Bethel more supportive of healthy aging. With the support of the Town of Bethel and under the auspices of AARP, we are exploring what Bethel has and does not have in the areas of safe recreational facilities, affordable public transportation, age-friendly housing options, chances to socialize, multigenerational programs, volunteer activities, access to technological resources, home-based care services, and good, healthy food.

This week the group is hosting two public meetings to engage the community in discussion around these factors, and we will be reporting on those meetings in the near future. We will also be distributing a survey to local community members over 50. Please watch for opportunities to help us in this important venture. FMI: Jacquelyn Cressy (rivendell@megalink.net, 824-0508).

they pushed the overall deal. As new buildings the individual condos had their own water connection and would have sewer connections. However, for older buildings to be "re-piped" with new metered water supply plumbing for rental units as in the case for instance the Opera House would be impractical so most of these older buildings were "grandfathered." The question to rental unit owners is do these rental/dwelling spaces have toilets and washing facilities i.e. plumbing? Or does the tenant use the owner's bathroom and kitchen facilities?

Sewer

Financial Obligations
The dollar value of the Sewer Department's operating property is reported each year in the Bethel Town Report's Annual Financial Report.

For Fiscal Year 2013* (July 1, 2012 to June 30, 2013) Bethel's Operating Sewer Property showed: Land and easements: $ 11,589; Buildings and Equipment: $3,562,644; Transmission Lines, $ 4,672,575 and Accumulated Depreciation was ($ 4,435,968) for Total Sewer property amount of $3,810,840. * FY2014's report had a printing error making this section unreadable.

Sewer Department Revenues and Expenses for FY 2014
Operating Revenues: $395,418; Operating Expenses: $545,452; Operating Income (Loss): ($150,034). Non-operating Revenues (Expenses): $3,125. Change in Net Position for FY2014: ($141,908).

Importance of the Town's Annual Reports Since the present sewer treatment plant began operating in the 1970s, there have been reports about the plant's operation only three times: 1978, 1979 and 1988. Considering all the taxpayer funds spent for the Bethel Station infrastructure, there should have been annual reports describing what was done. Town Managers reported generally what had been done but without details. The other half of that coin is, "Does anyone read the town's Annual Report?"

When Annual Printed Town Reports Began

In 1886 the treasurer's oral financial reporting was challenged - as reported in the April 2, 1886 edition of The Oxford County Advertiser, Bethel correspondent J.G. Rich jumped into the fray during the meeting. His issue was the Bethel Treasurer's accounting of resources. According to Rich, the treasurer was fudging the town's ability to pay down its debt from resources on hand. This led to a motion from the floor for a written town report for the next year. "Moved that the Auditor be requested to procure a Blank Book and to enter within the same all accounts and demands presented against the Town." See the Town minutes 1886, page 481: The following motion of advice was passed. "Moved that the town instruct the Selectmen of the Town that at the next annual meeting the Selectmen furnish a full, detailed report of items to the voters of the town including within it all reports of all officers of the town." The first such report was printed for the 1887 town meeting. A.M.

At the annual North American Wife Carrying Championship at Sunday River, a couple (left) kissed before the race. Winners Sam Brakeley and Steph Reighart competed against 30 "couples" from as far away as Florida, South Carolina, and Colorado. Every year, up to 50 couples compete on a course up the slopes of Sunday River for cash prizes and beer. The pair claimed their first North American title with a time of 1:05.30. They took home Reighart's weight in beer, as well as five times her weight in cash for a grand total of $750.60. Mike Kress and Anna-Lena Schneider of Portland placed second with a time of 1:10.70. Kress and Schneider placed second last year. The course was laid out slightly differently, with a longer and steeper uphill section and an extra hurdle, as well as a sand trap just before the finish line.

Bethel

On Sunday I participated in the 16th Annual Waterford Fall Foliage 5K Road Race. The race honors the memory of Tony Waldeier, who taught fifth grade at Waterford Elementary School for 35 years and became a teaching principal. All the funds raised at the race benefit the Tony Waldeier Scholarship Fund. Almost 200 people ran or walked in the road race and the children's fun run. I completed the out and back course (which the organizers call "challenging") in the same time as last year. My goal is always to finish and not be the last one back. This year I was 116 out of 143, which I consider successful.

A few weeks ago I wrote about the naysayers who were skeptical about having colorful fall foliage this year. I thought about them on Sunday as I participated in the aptly named Fall Foliage Road Race. The course wound along the edge of Keoka Lake, which was brilliant with red, gold, and yellow foliage. On the way back to Bethel through Albany, I saw several cars stopped along the road. The occupants were out on the roadway taking pictures of the foliage. Back in Bethel I saw picture-takers on Main Street and at Davis Park. The dictionary (Merriam-Webster online) defines foliage as "a cluster of leaves, flowers, and branches." When we talk about the beauty of our fall foliage, we're usually talking about the trees, but they are complemented by the roadside and meadow grasses and plants, many of which also turn brilliant shades of red and gold. I've noticed that the grasses are particularly colorful in the light of the rising sun.

Four dogs, accompanied by their humans, attended the Blessing of the Animals at the United Methodist Church on Saturday, Oct. 10. The Blessing of the Animals is conducted at churches around the world each year to commemorate the Feast Day for St. Francis of Assisi, which is Oct. 4. St. Francis is the patron saint of animals and this service celebrates his love for all animals. Pastor Carol Stevens conducted the service and blessed each dog: Baby, Bailey, Banjo and Katie. The pastor blessed a picture of Blue, the young dog found in Newry with lacerations on his muzzle caused from his mouth being taped shut. Blue is now recuperating at Bethel Animal Hospital following surgery to repair his wounds. The pastor also blessed baskets filled with stuffed toy animals, which will be given to organizations for distribution to children during the holiday season.

The Bethel United Methodist Church is hosting a bake sale on Saturday, Oct. 24 from 10 a.m. to noon. This is the church's first bake sale this fall. Food will include breads, cakes, candy, cookies, pies, and baked beans. The church is located at 79 Main Street in Bethel.

Mark your calendar for an upcoming event at the Bethel Library. On Wednesday, Oct. 28, at 6:30 p.m., Bob Remington and Tom Remington will speak about their recently published book, We Jumped. The Remingtons are Bethel natives and were well-known skiers and ski jumpers in the 1960s and 70s. Their book talks about the history of ski jumping in western Maine. Bob and Tom will read from the book, talk about their experiences, and sign copies of the book, which will be available to purchase. We Jumped was edited by another Bethel native, Steve Trinward. All profits from the sale of the book will go to the Ski Museum of Maine.

I hope everyone is enjoying this great fall weather we are having. The leaves are turning and it's starting to look beautiful. Let's just not think about what comes afterwards. I hear the Fryeburg Fair was a great success again. It's been a few years now since I was able to go. There is always next year, right?

I don't mean to be a nag, but I really need your help to keep this column interesting. Your suggestions and advice in regards to having more people participate, again, would be greatly appreciated. You can call me at 507-1008, private message me on Facebook or e-mail heinrichoracker@gmail.com.

Now on to the Trivia question. What happened Oct. 10, 1925 in the area?

Happy fall!

West Bethel

By Karen Paul

My dear, sweet kitty Orrie passed away on Thursday, Oct. 8 after a brave battle against diabetes. He was born on the Harrington Farm in Newry in 2000 and grew up in West Bethel. He went to school on the banks of the Androscoggin River with the otters and eagles as his first formal teachers. He moved several times including a stay atop Sparrowhawk Mountain, a couple winters in Berlin, N.H., and he spent weekends at his camp on Umbagog. He will be remembered as an avid hunter catching flying squirrels, moles, voles, and chipmunks. He was a true friend who accepted humans unconditionally. He is survived by his best doggy friend Willow.

I drove to Fairfield Thursday night with my daughter, Sarah. Friday morning we traveled to Portland as Sarah was headed to California for a conference and then to Colorado to visit her sister Eva. After five days Sarah will take a bus to Denver to meet with Seth and his mom. The three will travel by car to Cheyenne, Wyo. for a short visit.

Saturday we drove through Grafton Notch and Sunday we took a ride up to Mason Township to look at the foliage. The colors must be at peak as the leaves are beginning to fall.

Monday I got the old Kubota tractor started and moved gravel around to help winterize and fill in the low places around my house.

Andover

By Jane C. Rich

The Andover Motor Speedway was a beehive of activity Saturday afternoon for the racing of lawn mowers. Two heats preceded the main race. Winner of Heat 1 was Eric Morton; Heat 2 was taken by Andrew Morton. The main event started out with seven participants, three of which were knocked out by mechanical difficulties, mainly broken belts. A surge by driver Esau Cooper at the last minute of the main race made him victorious and the proud carrier of the checkered flag in the post parade. Andrew Morton was second and Eric Morton third. A good time was had by all.

This coming weekend will see a number of activities in town, so you don't have to drive anywhere for some good food and entertainment. On Saturday the 17th, the Snow Valley Sno Goers will be hosting a public supper at the CEB at 5:30 p.m. Land owners are invited for a free meal while the gen-

NOON

Lawnmower racers from the Andover area took to the track Saturday for the Fall Classic Lawnmower Race. The competition featured speed, spills (Kevin Merrill), breakdowns (Chris Taylor) and, in the end, a win by racer Esau Cooper (below). A cute puppy on the sidelines also drew her own share of attention from young spectators.

eral public will be charged $8 for adults, $5 for children and children 3 and under will eat free. The menu will be ham, mashed potatoes, green beans and homemade desserts.

The Andover Historical Society will have both of its buildings at Elm Street and the East Andover Road open for tours. The society has combined efforts with the Andover School PTA for the pumpkin challenge. If you make a great pumpkin dish consider entering it in the contest for nothing more than having bragging rights as the best pumpkin cook around. Entries should be brought to the society building on Elm Street between 10 and 11 a.m. with judging at 11:30. While you're there you can observe Jim Coolidge pressing cider and purchase a bag of pumpkin goodies (proceeds to the PTA). The buildings will be open until 3 p.m.

On Monday, Oct. 19, the Andover Service Circle will host its annual Senior Appreciation Dinner with a social time at 4 p.m. and the meal served at 4:30. All seniors in the community are invited to this event. Service Circle President, Andrea Savitz says "Even if you didn't get a formal invite come along for a nice meal and fun time."

It's been brought to my attention that the flu clinic notice of last week said Tuesday, Oct. 22, but actually it's Thursday, Oct. 22 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Town Hall. Be sure to bring your Medicare, Maine Care, or other insurance card. For all others the charge is $25. This is a great service for our community so be sure to take advantage of it.

Something you won't want to miss is the First Congregational Church bake and rummage sale which I'm told includes attic treasures that will take place on Saturday, Oct. 24 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. If you have things too good for the Transfer Station that you would like to part with, the church would be happy to take them off your hands and you will know they went for a good purpose.

On Monday the family and many friends of Archer "Junior" Poor gathered at the Woodlawn Cemetery for a time to celebrate his life. Junior was the holder of the Boston Post Cane as the oldest resident of this community, a man who loved nature and who shared its wonders with many throughout his life. Words of remembrance were given by several persons including his son-in-law and two grandsons. Following the service a time of fellowship and refreshment was held in the CEB thanks to ladies of the church and Andover Service Circle.

The Town is indebted to Ron White of East Andover for his devotion to cleaning, repairing and winding the clock in the Town Hall. Just recently Ron reported to the Selectmen that he made some repairs and improvements. We hear the familiar chiming on the hour, but seldom think about who makes that happen, so if you see Ron White, say thank you.

Gilead

By Lin Chapman

Well, the leaves have finally turned color and there seems to be a lot of reds.

The long Columbus Day weekend traffic on Route 2 was quite heavy with all the leaf peepers.

My brother, Steve McLain, has finally given up on his potted tomato plants. They have survived so far without being damaged by frost.

Last Friday night, Hugh and I got an e-mail from our night photographer friend, Gary Knapp. He was headed for Gilead to take a photo of the train headed west toward Berlin, N.H. and wanted us to be in the picture. He lives in Vermont and travels around mostly throughout Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York taking night photos of trains. He likes to have buildings in the background or some other unique feature in the photo. He has set up here before and one of his favorite shots is of the trestle over the Wild River. He has a group of railroad enthusiasts who love to get his emails with the photos attached and a brief description of where it was taken. Some of the engines are brightly painted with different paint schemes that signify what rail line they are associated with. Gary arrived around 8:30 p.m. and it takes him about an hour to set up his lights and do test shots. The westbound train arrived about 11:15 p.m. and the photo turned out beautifully. This one will be printed out and posted in the railroad station with the other area photos he has done.

Our granddaughter, Sidney, had a long weekend off from Gorham Middle School (New Hampshire). Grampa Hugh kept her company at her house on Friday and then she spent Monday at Grammy and Grampa's house.

Peter and Claudia Risbara were at their Gilead House this past weekend. They stopped by the Gilead Historical Society to visit on Sunday.

Gilead

Historical Society

We decided to open up the buildings this weekend. The weather was cool so we stayed inside instead of setting up on the lawn. We had a few people stop by on Saturday afternoon, but on Sunday we had about 20 people who stopped. There were a few "locals" but most were leaf peepers who were traveling through town. Several mentioned that they were traveling on Route 113 through Evans Notch. They had seen quite a bit of color, but thought it should be a lot more by now.

Some of the "locals" that stopped were Norm Buttrick and Cathy McGuire, Peter and Claudia Risbara and someone I don't see very often, Beverly Brown. Bev grew up in Gilead and attended school at the schoolhouse. She is now our newest member.

Hanover

By Maria Holloway

Fall Festival

Last Saturday's Festival of Fall began with a visit from an elusive black bear who meandered his way across Route

2 at about 9 a.m. just as the Festival was opening. The bear was seen for a fleeting moment making his way between parked cars at the Library driveway as he attempted to approach the Library front lawn. But a commotion from drivers honking their horns sent him retreating back across Route 2 and into the woods from where he came. Thankfully, he escaped unscathed, and within minutes, life in Hanover returned back to normal.

A brisk fall day it was! The crowd was entertained by Lisa Ferguson and her husband Jon with original songs accompanied by acoustic guitar and percussion. The Yard Sale was a huge success as patrons streamed in and made purchases throughout the day. Many big ticket items were seen being hauled away in truck beds and stuffed into car trunks. The snack bar satisfied hungry customers with a fabulous homemade chili which warmed visitors chilled by the biting winds. Others stopped into the Library to seek respite from the cold and purchased some of the beautiful handicrafts made by the Library Busy Bees. By noon the winds died down and everyone enjoyed the warmth of the autumn sun.

At 2 p.m. the Theme Basket Raffles were drawn. The winners were as follows: Sally Carey (Christmas Basket); Sally Pulia (Movie Time); Jane Gaudette (Girl's Day); Ed Kennett (Quilt Kit Basket and "Hand it Over" $100 bill); Joan Ippolito (What's in a Lady's Purse); Brenda Gross (Spice of Life); Lynn Lyons (Man's Basket); and Sharon Madore (50/50 raffle). Thanks to all who came to support this annual fundraising event and to the many Library friends and volunteers whose hard work and dedication made it all possible!

Update on Andy House

The windows and doors were installed last Friday at the new Andy Barlow home. Soon the interior finish work will begin. Andy and friends enjoyed the warm afternoon sunshine, beautiful views, good company and friendly conversation last weekend from the front porch.

Those wishing to pledge to Ben Byam's weight loss challenge to benefit the Andy Project may make their pledges by stopping into the Library or Hanover Town Office. The official "weigh out" will be in November and Ben tells us that he is making great progress! Thank you, Ben and good luck.

Locke's Mills

By Amy Wight Chapman

Our run of beautiful fall weather continues! Many people have been remarking on how beautiful the foliage is, in spite of having gotten a late start this year. There are always lots of leaf peepers in the area over the Columbus Day weekend, but often the foliage is past its peak by then and sometimes a strong wind or hard rain has already brought many of the leaves down. Not this year, though.

I've taken a photo during the height of the fall foliage from the same spot on the Johnny's Bridge Road for the past three years, and it's interesting to compare the dates of the photos. Two years ago the color was at its peak when I took a photo on Sept. 29, while this year it was just reaching its most dramatic point when I was there on Sunday. A photo I took there a week earlier shows hardly any fall color at all.

There was a lot of traffic on the roads all through the holiday weekend, and when I was trying to take photos on Johnny's Bridge, I had to wait for two cars that stopped on the bridge so their drivers could get out and photograph Round Pond, North Pond, and Buck's Ledge, with the colors reflected in the water. Then Polly Jordan came along at the end of a leaf-peeping Sunday drive, and she and I agreed on how lucky we are to get to live in this beautiful place, not just visit for a long weekend.

Speaking of Columbus Day, a movement to end the celebration of the holiday (or replace it with one called Indigenous People's Day) is gaining momentum across North and South America, and I've come to realize that the near-reverence with which Columbus was regarded when I was studying the early explorers back in the fourth grade was sadly misplaced. Far from being a hero, Columbus was in actuality a cruel mercenary who was motivated by the conquest and exploitation of the New World's indigenous peoples.

Howard Zinn wrote of Columbus and his men, in A People's History of the United States, "In the year 1495, they went on a great slave raid, rounded up fifteen hundred Arawak men, women, and children, put them in pens guarded by Spaniards and dogs, then picked the five hundred best specimens to load onto ships. Of those five hundred, two hundred died en route. The rest arrived alive in Spain and were put up for sale by the archdeacon of the town..." Columbus later wrote: "Let us in the name of the Holy Trinity go on sending all the slaves that can be sold."

He committed many other atrocities against the native people, including, according to Zinn, requiring all members of the Tainos in Hispaniola who were over the age of 14 to provide him with a certain amount of gold every three months. Failure to comply resulted in having their hands cut off and being left to bleed to death. Definitely not someone worthy of veneration.

After I submitted my column last week, I had the nagging feeling that I had forgotten something. When I was going through my e-mail folders later in the week, I realized that Joyce Hathaway had sent a notice about the harvest supper and dance at the Legion Hall, which was on Tuesday this week. I usually move any e-mails containing news for the column to a separate folder so I can find them easily, but I had inadvertently moved this one to the wrong folder, so it had gotten lost. I apologize for the omission!

Mona and I enjoyed a nearly month long trip westward to visit family, returning late on Oct. 2. This time we swung a little further southwest to Carson City, Nev. to visit oldest brother Paul's son Gary and youngest daughter Vicky and her husband Jim, whom we had not seen in five or six years. Our return across central Nevada surprised us with numerous high desert mountains which we didn't know existed. We crossed five or six mountain passes that were between 5,000 and 7,500 feet high where we had expected to see only desert. Our return through the Color-do mountains took us over Loveland Pass, over 11,000 feet high. These mountains were in full mountain grandeur, with huge swaths of golden yellow aspens in peak fall color.

Our new (year old) Ford pickup surprised us both with its neat handling pulling the camper. With the "tow/haul" feature engaged the truck automatically downshifted on the steep mountain downgrades, so little additional braking was required. It even seemed to be less bothered by high crosswinds than we had encountered with the old Toyota.

Since we got home, we have been busy with cleaning out the camper, mowing grass, harvesting and cleaning up the garden, patching the driveway asphalt and topping off the firewood piles. Now, I am ready to get busy with logging. I must point out that we drove up the new logging road where Irish Company has been logging for the past 1 and a half years. Their road now extends 2.2 miles from the Kings Highway, crossing a high ridge just this side of Tyler Mountain. The view of the foliage in the Pleasant River Valley, seen from the top of the ridge is resplendent with brilliant yellows, reds, oranges and many shades of green. I don't think fall foliage anywhere can be any more colorful than here this year.

I almost forgot about my "nose job." I have received many compliments on the bulbous white bandage taped over my "snozz," placed there by my dermatologist after she snipped off a couple of basal cell skin cancers there last week. Trouble is, the bandage won't stay on, and the nose is really ugly now without it!

Monday, 10:40 a.m. Condolences to the families of Mary S. Billings, Jeanette M. Allen, Charles (Buster) E. Morse and William B. Curtis, Sr. Our thoughts and prayers are going out to each family member.

A great week for the Fryeburg Fair lots of warm sunny days for all the events, only one damp day. Many from the area attended.

Yogi is working for Nadeau Enterprise. They have a lot of work to finish up before frost settles in. Yogi loves working outside and driving truck. Paula and I entertained for the residents at Rumford Community Center last Wednesday. They always have such a wonderful time and we get them to participate with us in some sing-alongs that they are all familiar with.

Paula and I will be entertaining at the Ledgewood Nursing Home Tuesday and the Veteran's Home in South Paris on Wednesday of this week. Paula and I are so blessed to be able to spend our monthly visits with the residents throughout the counties.

Newry

By Doug Webster

At last week's Selectboard meeting, Town Administrator, Retta Powers, gave an update on "Blue."

Blue was named by the staff at the Bethel Animal Hospital. The dog was brought in by the Newry Animal Control Officer after being found at the Sunday River Resort by Timothy Turner, Sunday River's Deputy Director of Public Safety. Retta said the dog was making a rapid recovery from wounds he received by having his muzzle previously taped shut. I hope they find the idiot who did this. Then maybe that person will have his head taped shut for a while. I must say I couldn't believe how good Blue's spirit was when I saw him on TV. The resiliency of dogs sure is amazing. Speedy recovery to Blue.

The Newry Community Church had its last service of the season on Sunday, Oct. 11. According to the Citizen, services will resume in the spring.

The Board agreed to create a new Veteran's memorial. They didn't really get into details. They thought it was best to form a committee to research it and come up with specifics. A great idea. We should do all we can to remember all our vets, as Jim Largess pointed out, whether they served during wartime or not. If you're interested in being on the committee, call the town office.

The organization known as BANC, the Bethel Area Non-profit Collaborative, came to the Board. Member Steve Wight and Network Facilitator, Amy Scott, were there to give their sales pitch to the Board members. They are looking to expand their membership to towns and anybody else willing to join. It sounds like they want to be involved and collaborate with all sorts of different projects. I am all for them helping each other out within the nonprofit organizations or any other business looking to network. But I am a little uneasy with the group getting involved with municipalities. I'm not sure why they feel they need to help the towns out. But I think it is best to keep a separation of government and outside interests.

I see the Family Dollar is open. The Chamber of Commerce's tireless effort to promote Bethel sure has paid off. We can now attract national chain stores. Keep up the good work!

That's all for now.

Upton

By Joe Bernier

The State Line Snowmobile Club scheduled their first meeting of the season for Tuesday, Oct. 13 at 5 p.m. at the Upton House. I believe that the club will elect officers for the ensuing year during the meeting.

A few weeks ago, I mentioned that when my winter's wood is all in the shed, I will begin my snow dance. I have been informed that there are threats being made to my woodpile. It seems that at least one of my sisters plans to take the wood OUT of my shed and perhaps hide it, thus preventing or delaying the dance. That seems like a drastic step for anti-winter fanatics to perform.

The Upton Planning Board will meet Friday, Oct. 30. That meeting is the last one scheduled in 2015. Meetings will resume Friday, Feb. 26, 2016.

Andover Elementary School off to a good start

It has been an amazing start to the school year at Andover Elementary School!

We kicked off our year with a meet and greet night on Aug. 24, the week before classes began. This night provided an opportunity for students, parents, and the community to meet the new staff of both the elementary school and the newly formed Andover School Department. The turn out of attendees was tremendous.

One of the highlights to our lunch program is having fresh fruits and vegetables from local farmers. John Ricker from Simplicity Farms has provided us with fresh produce such as cucumbers, tomatoes, onions, and squash. Dick and Louise Kangas of Kangas Farms in Bryant Pond have provided us with a variety of apples. Students are enjoying the options and are making some healthy choices.

On Sept. 17, the staff, students, and community of Andover School Department gathered to commemorate not only the annual open house of the elementary school, but also to mark the beginning of a new journey for the community. Events included the planting of an oak tree and the burial of a time capsule. The oak tree symbolizes our roots in the community while celebrating growing together. Students wrote letters to their future selves and community members contributed items to mark our past, present, and future for the time capsule, which will be unearthed and opened in 2030.

On Oct. 2, AES hosted our annual Grandparents and Special Friends day. During the afternoon our guests enjoyed recess with us and ate a hearty Shepherds Pie lunch prepared by Michelle in the kitchen. The APT also provided the opportunity for pictures by our new oak tree and making frames to hold the memories. Visitors also spent time in classrooms where we read books, played Bingo, and students shared what they have been learning. At 2 p.m. we also held our first Friday Celebration where we recognized summer birthdays, students of the month from each class, and each room presented their learning about respect. During the week of Oct. 4-8, we learned about Fire Safety and Prevention. Fire Chief Justin Tibbets along with two local firefighters, Kelsey Averill and Angela Percival came in to share a presentation with us. We learned about stop/drop and roll, stay low & go, and how to create an evacuation plan with our families. Students really enjoyed seeing chief in his gear and learning about the various components.

A huge thank you goes out to all our families and the community for helping to make this such an AWE-SOME year so far! - Teaching Principal Karen Thurston

OCEA-R to meet in South Paris

The Oxford County Educators Association-Retired will meet next on Friday, Oct. 23, at the First Congregational Church in South Paris. Sign-ins will begin at 10:30 a.m., followed by the business meeting, a meal provided by members of the church, and a program presented by Karen Ricci. Her topic will be "People and Animals" and will explore the practice of reiki, a form of alternative medicine.

The October meeting is an important event because it involves the two major fundraising activities of the group. The annual pie sale will take place. Apple pies are being sold for $10. On Wednesday, Oct. 21, some volunteers from OCEA-R will gather to peel apples and prepare for the sale on Friday. Any members who want to help should be at the First Congregational Church in South Paris that morning. The second fundraiser will be the annual calendar raffle, and it will be handed out at the October meeting. Donations to it should be handed in at the November meeting at the Locke's Mills Legion Hall on Nov. 20.

The September meeting was very successful. It was held at the West Paris Universalist Church. The group was pleased with the warm welcome they received and the excellent dinner provided by members of the Universalist church. The program was a talk by Emily and Chris McCabe of Maine's Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. It proved to be a dynamic presentation of the work of the department and personal experiences in the field.

SLIMING THE TEACHER-The Woodstock Elementary School recently held a "Slime the Teacher" fundraiser to support the fifth grade's spring trip to Boston. Teachers Jess Wilkey and Tanya Nicols tied for first place for favorites to slime, each garnering $215.74. A total of $516.30 was raised. Wilkey is shown here being slimed with a mixture of water, green food coloring, cornstarch, glue and Borax. The concoction was made by the fifth graders.

Maine Adaptive announces new director

Maine Adaptive is pleased to announce that Barbara Schneider will assume the position of Executive Director at the organization's board meeting in late October. The selection was made after a competitive national search and selection process. Barbara is succeeding Peter Adams in the position; Peter has led the successful expansion and growth of Maine Adaptive for the past six years.

"We are thrilled to announce this appointment," says David Van Slyke, Maine Adaptive's Board President. "Barbara has a strong history of public advocacy and will bring leadership and energy to our year-round recreation programs for individuals with physical disabilities. She is an avid skier and shares our deep sense of commitment to recreation. In addition to her significant legal career, Barbara has served nonprofits in program, fundraising, and leadership levels, and has a breadth of perspective and experience. Last, we are also very appreciative of Peter's leadership over the past half-dozen years, and he leaves the organization in a great financial and strategic position."

Barbara joins the team following a successful legal career at Murray, Plumb & Murray in Portland. She earned her law degree from Harvard. In addition to her legal practice, Barbara has more than 15 years of experience in nonprofit administration and is an active player in the winter sports arena; Barbara is a PSIA Alpine Level III ski instructor and has run the older children's ski and ride school at Sunday River Resort. Additionally, she coaches Gould Academy Competition Program's youngest racers.

"Look forward to joining this amazing team and meeting the hundreds of dedicated members of the Maine Adaptive Community," remarks Barbara. "I am committed to this organization as I have witnessed, first-hand, the unique opportunities provided to so many who may otherwise not experience the freedom, exhilaration or independence offered by taking part in sport. Maine Adaptive plays a key role in promoting access to quality, accessible sports programming."

Barbara's first day was Oct. 14, 2015. She can be reached via e-mail bschneider@maineadaptive.org or by phone: (207)-824-2440, ext. 1106.

West Paris Historical Society news

Our September meeting was a fun night and our guest Rodney Abbott did a great job narrating the life of General Otis Howard of the Civil War period. The town is blessed to have this man in our community. Thank you, Rodney.

Our next meeting is on Monday, Oct. 19 at 6 o'clock with a potluck supper, a short business meeting, and Blaine Mills to talk about the history of Richardson Hollow, which is a section of Greenwood and a neighbor to West Paris.

Just a reminder, on Saturday, Oct. 31, we will have our annual Hunters' Breakfast from 5 to 8, which is also called a Family Breakfast. Come one, come all. It's always fun.

BHS 50th Anniversary Fund Campaign News

The Bethel Historical Society's "50th Anniversary Annual Fund Campaign" is now underway in recognition of the organization's forthcoming semi-centennial in 2016. The Society was founded at the Bethel Library on May 31, 1966, under the guidance of local historian Eva M. Bean (1895-1969). This year's campaign pays tribute to the Society's progress over the past five decades, while recognizing that many of its achievements would not have been possible were it not for the generous financial support of many individuals and organizations. Held each fall, the annual fund campaign raises unrestricted income that allows the Society to maintain daily operations at its two museums on Broad Street.

To assist the Society in reaching its 50th anniversary goal, a special category of "Golden Anniversary Donors" has been created for those who either donate $50 or more as a first gift, or who add that much or more to their 2014 donation. Those falling into this group will be listed separately in the Society's next "Report of Giving" (published in 2016) and will also receive a commemorative thank-you gift with their acknowledgment letter.

MAHOOSUC KIDS

Enrichment opportunities for the children in SAD #44

From the Director

Welcome to fall at MKA! We have been busy just getting to know everyone and new staff at our CPS site. Welcome Kayla LeVeille and Krystal Gould to CPS. We look forward to a great year of fun and learning. MKA continues to have staff openings so anyone who enjoys working with children, give Julie a call.

Our students participated in the Fryeburg Fair 4H Exhibit which showcased many of our summer art projects. The kids will be excited about getting so many blue & green participation ribbons.

Our First LEGO team is off and running with the challenge this year of recycling.

October is the month we celebrate "Lights On Afterschool". The Afterschool Alliance organizes Lights On Afterschool to draw attention to the many ways afterschool programs support students by offering them opportunities to learn new things—such as science, community service, robotics, Karate and poetry—and discover new skills. The events send a powerful message that millions more kids need quality afterschool programs. All of our schools will be celebrating with different events and activities. Check our Facebook page for date and times of the events.

Enjoy the wonderful fall weather!

Julie Hart,
MKA Director

With the help of our donated recyclables, we were able to make recycled bugs! When they were done they needed to tell everyone if made an insect, arachnid, crustacean, millipede or centipede.

WMVH Tree of Caring bulbs for sale

Once again, it is time to start preparing for the Holiday season, and members of the Western Maine Veterans' Advisory Committee (WMVAC) are selling Christmas bulbs to light the tree located at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris. The bulbs are for sale for $5 each, and may be purchased in memory of a loved one or in honor of someone close to the heart.

"The tree has grown immensely over the past several years, and each year we have more lights on it, states Joe Cooney, co-chairman of WMVAC. This fundraiser has become a local tradition and our residents look forward to the tree lighting ceremony held when the tree becomes fully lit." The community is always invited as well as staff, residents and families to see this lighting.

This year's lighting ceremony will take place at the Maine Veterans' Home located at 477 High Street in South Paris on Thursday, Dec. 3, 2015, at 7 p.m. There will be music, refreshments and plenty of good cheer.

Bulbs are available for purchase for $5 each. Payment can be made by sending a check to Maine Veterans' Home, c/o Richard Young, 477 High Street, South Paris, Maine 04281, or by stopping at the facility. Please include the name of the person to be on the bulb and remember to signify whether it is honor of or in memory of that person.

WMVAC works throughout the year by doing many varied fund raising events to raise money for the Activities Fund at the South Paris facility. For more information about the Tree of Caring or about the Maine Veterans' Home, call (207) 743-6300, or visit us at our website at www.mainevets.org.

The River Valley Rotary Club's 22nd Annual Oktoberfest Craft Fair will be held indoors at Hope Association on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. This event is one of the Rotary's clubs missions to support literacy in our community. Hundreds of books are available for all ages. There will be a variety of crafters offering jewelry, homemade crafts, baked goods and a multitude of other merchandise. Many raffles and winners will be drawn at the end of the day. Each child attending will be able to play a variety of games for .25 and pick a free book from the Children's room.

If you haven't found that special gift, you are sure to find it here. Check out Hope Association's Facebook page for happenings. There will be a cookie walk and lots of raffles with something for everyone. Drawings will be at the end of the day. You do not need to be present to win. A delicious pancake breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and lunch 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Free coffee all day.

This event is sponsored by River Valley Rotary and the Hope Association. Proceeds help support both of their Missions, scholarships, the Interact Youth Club, and special projects and outings for those that attend Hope.

PET OF THE WEEK:

Meet Star

After spending much of her life outside, coping alone, Star is finding life inside to be good. She gets her dinner on time and she has a warm place to sleep.

Star is not entirely comfortable being confined to one place. She would prefer to be in a home where she can have the run of the house with plenty of places for her to feel cozy. She could also help with the mice population in the barn.

This cautious cat needs to live with someone that she can trust so she can bond at her own pace.

Responsible Pet Care of Oxford Hills is a no-kill, non-profit shelter and adoption center for cats and dogs; and the holding area for stray dogs for 12 towns in Oxford County.

Anyone interested in adopting a pet from RPC can visit the shelter at 9 Sallow Road in South Paris Tues, Wed, Thurs: 12-4 pm; Fri: 12-6pm; Sat & Sun: 12-5pm. Most of the adoptable pets and the adoption application can be found online on the shelter's website at www.rpc.petfinder.com.

For answers to questions about adopting or fostering a pet, or to make an inquiry about a lost animal, call Responsible Pet Care after noon at 743-8679.

ARCHER POOR

Archer Poor, who lived all his years in Andover, passed from this life on Oct. 3 at the age of 96. Known for his independent spirit, a practical worldview and a natural ease with people of every variety, he was beloved by all who knew him. Junior was born on May 8, 1919 to Archer and Susie Goodwin Poor who raised their son in the ways of western Maine where his love of nature grew. He graduated from Andover High School in 1936.

On March 19, 1941, Junior entered the US Selective Service, 43rd Division, and was sent to the South Pacific where he fought at New Caledonia, Guadalcanal, and the Philippines until August 1945. He received many military honors including a Purple Heart and in 2010 was awarded a Gold Star for his service.

Back in Andover, Junior's life began anew in 1947 with marriage to Frances Delong, then the birth of two daughters, Penelope and Paula, then a son, Peter. Today they and their families carry on his traditions.

Junior's lifelong work was as a Registered Maine Guide and manager of Camp Bellevue on Upper Richardson. He learned to graft apple trees, made snowshoes and axe handles. In the early springtime he made maple syrup in his sap house that he turned into candies to share at Christmas. He loved hunting, snowmobiling, and fly fishing. He tied his own flies developing the classic feather wing streamer. Junior also enjoyed writing stories documenting his past.

In 1951, while exploring the shoreline on Upper Richardson, Junior found a smoothly polished stone later to be identified as an Indian artifact. Thus began his lifelong study and collection of Paleo-Indian and Red Paint artifacts. He shared his interest with his family and others who'd caught the bug. Junior's collection resides now with the Maine State Museum.

In 1994, Junior received the Annual Historic Preservation Award for his archaeological findings, and in 1996 he was awarded a Master of Science degree from the University of Maine at Farmington for his work in the field.

In retirement, summers were spent at his beloved Camp Clear Quill on Upper Richardson with his wife Frances and their "Kitty." Joined by his daughter Penny until 2004 when she passed away.

Junior's spirit of living and learning has its home now in all of those he loved and guided through a long and wonderful life.

Junior was predeceased by his wife Frances, daughter Penelope, sisters Althea Milton and Thelma Clark. He is survived by his daughter Paula McDonald and husband David, their children Ryan and wife Lorien, and their daughter Beatriz; and Cory and his wife Marissa and soon to be great-granddaughter. Also his son Peter and wife Belinda, and their children Jenna Tibbetts and husband Nicholas, and son Peter John II.

Friends and relatives are invited to sign the online guest book and share memories with the family at www.meaderson.com. Graveside services were held at Woodlawn Cemetery in Andover on Monday, Oct. 12, 2015 at 1 p.m., followed by a gathering at the Andover Congregational Church CEB Room. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the First Congregational Church Food Pantry, PO Box 249, Andover, Maine 04216 or to the Friends of Richardson, PO Box 71, Andover, Maine 04216 in his memory. Arrangements are under the direction of the Meader & Son Funeral Home, 3 Franklin Street, P.O. Box 537, Rumford, Maine 04276.

OCRCC hires two full-time dispatchers

Director James P. Miclon of the Oxford County Regional Communications Center/Public Safety Answering Point in South Paris has announced the full time hiring of Douglas A. Fillebrown of Waterford and Shawna M. Emery of Fryeburg as the newest members of the dispatch center team.

Fillebrown and Emery were approved by the Oxford County Board of Commissioners at the regular monthly in August, on the recommendation of Miclon. Fillebrown and Emery were serving as reserve dispatchers at the 911 center until their promotion on Sept. 1, according to Miclon.

Both new employees received hundreds of hours of classroom, practical, and on the job training throughout their prior year and half with Oxford County. Director Miclon explained that new communications dispatchers must receive mandatory and specific training through the State of Maine, National Academy of Emergency Dispatch, and other training sources involving the 911 telephone system, Emergency Medical Dispatch, law enforcement, and fire service dispatching, as well as radio dispatching, Computer Aided Dispatch logging, and acquire a Maine Emergency Medical Dispatch License, just to name some of the training.

Miclon said that Fillebrown and Emery filled two vacancies in the center's 12-person organization.

We Jumped: Reading and book-signing with the Remingtons

On Wednesday, Oct. 28 at 6:30 p.m., the Bethel Library will present a book talk and signing with authors Bob and Tom Remington.

The Remington brothers, champion skiers and ski jumpers in the 1960s and 1970s, collaborated to write We Jumped, which tells the local history of ski jumping in western Maine and New Hampshire.

Their father, Clarence "Rockin' Chair" Remington, was an exceptional four-event skier who passed away at the age of 51 in 1975.

"At 26 years of age, I didn't realize how much it would have meant many years later to know more about him and his childhood and experiences before my time," wrote Bob Remington.

"Forty years later, I regret that I didn't have the foresight to realize that one day I would want to know every little detail associated with his times."

In writing their book, he said, "we decided that we wanted to provide a 'feeling' for what it was like growing up on skis in western Maine in the 1950s, '60s, and '70s."

They chose to write about ski jumping because "it was a passion-filled sport which is sadly missing from the lives of our youth in the 21st century."

Join the Remingtons for a trip down Memory Lane and a spirited discussion of local skiing history.

They will read from their book and sign copies, which will be available for purchase at the event. All profits from the sale of the book go to the Ski Museum of Maine and the Maine Ski Hall of Fame.

The Bethel Library is located at 5 Broad Street, across from the Common. The event is free and open to the public. FMI: 824-2520.
